Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Influenza.

DR. DUNCAN'S EXPECTORANT REMEDY. Afflicted reader do not suffer this disease to knit its fatal threads in your system; they are certain to hurry you to an untimely grave. Has not experience taught you—have not your lungs proved convinced you that Consumption is certain death to all whom it may encounter, when left to its late progress? Then why will you delay procuring a remedy in due season to arrest the progress of that fell destroyer? A Cold, which soon terminates in a coughing, by which soreness of throat and inflammation of the mucous membrane of the bronchi is produced, and the lungs rendered open to disease. Thus persons suffer themselves to procrastinate until death looks in at the door—when they will begin to be concerned about their health, when in all probability it is too late. May all who have a cold take timely warning, and get rid of it as soon as possible.

Dr. Duncan's Expectorant Remedy stands before the public tested by thousands, and daily used in almost every family throughout the different States for diseases of the Chest and Lungs. The vast amount sold in this town, and that to so many persons who have obtained relief by the use of half dozen bottles, is sufficient evidence of its wonderful efficacy.
